00:23:26.937,00:23:29.937

Kathy Fitzpatrick: Thank you, Courtney! I'll connect with Kris to pull together a comment about this issue to submit.

00:40:01.609,00:40:04.609

Kristen Slatt: Amber, not yet. I recieved an email from her in March and she said that she should have a report to us by the end of Summer 2021, so hopefully soon.

00:40:04.308,00:40:07.308

Amber DeGrange: I think a lot of people have gotten covid and now feel like they don't need the vaccine

00:41:17.802,00:41:20.802

Marci McMurphy: I agree Amber. I had it back in November and had 1 physician state I didn't need it and another 2 stated that I did need it.

00:46:05.471,00:46:08.471

Amy Asher: The one person that was able to convince me was an ER doctor at mcmc who had worked on the ohsu research team. I needed someone who I felt I could trust and was in the muck of it to give me information. It was very difficult to distinguish the information as it changed so quickly last year. I personally needed more time to see any long term affects but he was able to explain it in a way that made sence and didn't contradict what we are taught about vaccines in the medical field.

00:48:23.083,00:48:26.083

Amy Asher: Yes Justin!!!

00:49:34.168,00:49:37.168

Amy Asher: Fyi, Wes Owen's just shared with us that they are having a vaccine clinic tomorrow afternoon

00:51:38.599,00:51:41.599

Marci McMurphy: That's great Amber.

00:52:28.426,00:52:31.426

Amy Asher: Leave it to Amber to add an alternative incentive 🤔🤔

00:58:50.100,00:58:53.100

Shellie Campbell: I have to jump off. Thank you for a very thoughtful conversation!
